Jamaica Plain High School

YEARBOOK

- As It Was Fifty Years Ago -

In The Good Old Days At West Roxbury High School

THEY GO TO SCHOOL

It is eight thirty. Everywhere the city's transportation system is hustling and bustling, getting the boys and girls to school. It is in the day of the Gibson Girl, with huge bustles which sway in the opposite direction from which the girls walk. It is the day in which mother goes bicycling when women's skirts sweep the ground; when the young gentlemen wear derbies, and sport moustaches; when the wind can't get skirts much above the ankles,—such "exposé" receives the appreciative whistle of the young blades of the day,—that is, those who dare!

School girls have long braids with big bows on the back of their heads. They wear middie-blouses and straight skirts, and narrow pointed shoes, which are buttoned or laced high in the wintertime.

Attired in such fashion, Adelle, Evelyn, Adeline, and their crowd have just gotten off the horse drawn trolley. Walking up Greenough Avenue to the school, they greet Lillian, then hasten to the locker room. There goes the bell for classes.

It is now the last period, and the coming Seventeenth Reunion, a formal dance at Eliot Hall has everyone excited all over the school.

"How are you going to get there?"

Ah, that is the question. There are the victorias and phaetons which look somewhat like stage coaches without the exquisite accessories. Then there are, of course, those new electric cars—the horseless carriages, but few there are who can aspire to this elegance. Can you imagine putting on one of those long canvas-like coats over your dreamy pink satin gown, with what appears to be a turkish towel turban around your hair, which takes you an hour and a half to fix? This headgear, plus a down-to-ground "duster", are the things for riding when all cars and carriages are open and all roads dusty,—except when they are deep in mud.

Dismissal bell, and off to ice skating go the crowd. Just let's see you try one of those new fangled spins and whirls ending with a graceful glide and back kick. Ha! Ha! Can you just picture it? Well, you better try; for it is, in short, fifty years ago—the year, 1900.

THEY STUDY

The girls go to Curtis Hall to drill and do gymnastics. The young ladies, uniformed in blue middie blouses with black Windsor ties, pleated bloomers down to their knees, and long black cotton stockings, jump, walk the plank line, suspend themselves overhead, and then dance gracefully the measures of a waltz.

A soapy smell drifts from the chemistry laboratory. Inside, the girls are making colored soap, the boys are making gases. Often the smell of the gases forces the class and teacher out of the laboratory and into the corridor (I wonder, though, if it really is an accident.)

In the English classes enunciation and diction are greatly stressed, as is spelling. Penmanship is very important too, and everyone has to use the Spencerian handwriting to receive good marks.

Mr. Mann, the principal, conducts the French class and is very strict with his pupils. German, Spanish and Latin are taught, too, in the regular course. Singing is also a part of the curriculum.

Some of the girls, after bringing written permission of their parents, attend the Home Science classes. This course consists of home furnishing, use of cellar, kitchen and pantries; Daily Care of the House, which presents the problems of "dust, dirt, and danger". Food, including diets, "The five food principles, their sources and their uses in the human body"; Hygiene and Public Health, teaching the disposal of refuse. This course is assuredly of great benefit to the future home-maker of Jamaica Plain!

Algebra, geometry, and physics are additional subjects taught. There is a commercial course, but few students take it.

Football is a popular sport and the girls are always there, cheering.

THEY HAVE GAY PARTIES

Sleighrides, hayrides, and toboggan parties are common, and there are many house to house parties, as everyone in the class knows everyone else.

There are two formal dances every winter, held either at Eliot Hall or Curtis Hall. When one enters the hall one has to meet the matrons, say "How do you do?", and curtsy. The boy that the girl comes with, receives the first and last dances, and the ones before and after intermission. The girls carry fans and whoever has her card filled with names first, is considered the most popular girl. Dances are conducted in a dignified manner.

The most important event of the school year is the Officers' Dance which is held after competitive drill. At one thirty P. M. the cadets, dressed in spick-and-span white duck trousers and blue jackets go on the floor to go through their paces before an appreciative audience of their friends. The floor is then cleared for dancing, which lasts until about six o'clock. At this delightful affair, cadets from Lynn, Medford, and other high schools in and around Boston are present. "A reception at the hands of the matrons" . . . "preceded the dancing, the guests being introduced by the officers of the occasion".

During the intermission, refreshments are served, and "the approach of evening closes the gaities of the day".

Another enjoyable occasion is the annual reunion. This is one of the few times when all the past and present graduates are able to exchange greetings. The students attend in formal dress. After a short program and refreshments, dancing is enjoyed for the rest of the evening. (And with what skill they execute the steps, which seem to us so intricate. Remember the times you have staggered around the gym with two left feet, trying in vain to acquire the grace and dexterity necessary for the old time dances?)

JOHN B. CASEY, HEADMASTER

Message Of The Headmaster To The Class Of 1950

The Class of 1950 has the distinction of being the first to be graduated in the second half of the twentieth century. During the fifty years just completed, great progress has been made in industry and science. Enough evidence is available to convince anyone that even greater studies will be made in the years ahead. You are fortunate to be entering the business world on the threshold of an expanding and prosperous economy.

In order to seize the opportunities which will be available you must possess certain attributes. Above all else you must have a record of integrity, industry, and personality. I cannot see how a person with these virtues can be anything but successful. We have tried to cultivate in you habits of truth and honesty. Your courses of study are designed to teach you to work and to learn the value of overcoming difficult assignments. The associations you have made in the school, both with teachers and colleagues, should have served to teach you the value of getting along with people. This little school world in which you have been living and moving should be preparation for that bigger world of business and home building which you are about to enter.

Accept my fondest wishes for a long, happy, and successful life.

MRS. ALICE H. TRACY

School Medical Aid — 1940-1950

It is with regret that we say farewell to Mrs. Tracy, our medical aid, who left our school on February 28, 1950, to retire from active service. Her labors here have left an indelible imprint on our school; her record is one of splendid achievement. As she brings to a close a period of ten years of unselfish devotion to Jamaica Plain High School, she may well have a feeling of satisfaction in the accomplishment of a task well done.

She was deeply interested in the happiness and well-being of every pupil. Her understanding sympathy, her friendliness, and her gracious personality have endeared her to us all.

We who knew her so well rejoice that henceforth she will have the luxury of leisure; so that she will be able to do the many interesting things that the pressure of duty previously denied her. Yet we cannot fail to appreciate the loss that her retirement will be to our school. In going, she leaves us many happy memories. We wish her the greatest happiness in her future undertakings.

H. M. K.

We acknowledge the artistic skill of these two girls for their contribution to this book, Ruth Reid and Margaret Vassalo.

OUR MESSAGE TO YOU

In this year book, our last school project, we have endeavored to reproduce the spirit of that carefree decade, 1900. The photographs give informal glimpses of our academic and social life in the school. As you glance gaily over each leaf of our volume, we hope you will have as much pleasure in reading it as we have had in compiling it. H. D.

To our unsung heroes, our Faculty Advisors, Miss James and others, we desire to express our sincerest gratitude for their endless efforts.

Class History

The crystal clears, and rising into the haze is our castle on Elm Street, the ivy sheathing its walls in mystery. The month is September, in the year of our Lord 1947. There are two bright eyed innocents trudging up the hill, and at any moment they will cross the drawbridge for their first day in Jamaica Plain High School. "Sophomores" is the correct calling card for such as these. Little do they realize that fate has their sophomore class listed as the fiftieth to graduate.

Though bewildered, unsure, and perplexed, we, the fated class, settled down to begin the first term. Teachers ceased to be called "this" and "that", and several boys quickly found out that there are all girls on certain stairways. Far above our reach were other creatures, better known as juniors and seniors. Not wanting to be outdone, we scattered to the various activities, especially sports. Our track teams burned up the boards, and the pigskin toters rooted in the dust at Carolina Avenue. Edward Scheer, soon four times a winner of the city's tennis championship came among us.

The year passed with surprising rapidity, and before we knew it, the doors were being locked for a well earned vacation.

When the fall of 1948 rolled around, we were back again. Now poised and up to the ways of the world; we knew enough to keep out of range of the deadly water bubblers early in the morning. The homework hit a little harder, but it seems that several of us did not agree with studying. Mrs. Tracy very often had six or eight pairs of glasses along with the four lunches and several handbags in her lost and found department. Mr. Bond broke the sad news that a full gym uniform was required at Curtis Hall. We often had as much as ten minutes to play basketball. Many had acquired the mentality and were surging forward with the Clarion, and the Honor Roll was dashed here and there with some of our number.

Well, "tempis fugit" as Caesar and Miss Ruggles say, we had a mild winter to the dismay of the newly formed ski club, and a fine summer to bring us to the fall of 1949.

Things came thick and fast. The first surprise was the addition of many gremlins, whom we naturally welcomed. Certainly we never came in such a small "family size." The chemistry laboratory was a novelty, and so were we, as Mr. Donnellan will attest. Skirts are still long, but it looks as though the girls have mastered their use. A tremendous boost to the city's schools is the new George Robert White Memorial Stadium, a short walking distance from our weekly quarters. We had the honor of playing the first night game in this gorgeous park.

Almost before our seats were warmed up, we were bidden to hustle into Purdy for picture taking. "Return your proofs" was the battle cry as the year wore on. Earl Lovejoy burned up flashbulbs throughout the school with a little assistance by Purdy in the larger group pictures.

The ring salesman followed our class election, which after much last minute campaigning chose Paul Callahan as President, and John Heald as Vice President. The girls commanded the treasury and secretary positions with Phyllis Malone and Joan Roumacher.

John Heald held another office, that of Key Club President. The Key Club at first went into a coma, but was sparked into life at the end of the year, aiding many charities immensely.

The Clarion caught a breeze in editor Robert Kent and sailed off to their first publication with Miss Coghlan as a rudder. The yearbook staff under Miss James is bound to turn out a topnotch book for the fiftieth graduating class.

This year we were generously entertained by a comedian, a concert, an educational science program, and a variety show. Honor roll cards were given out in the hall this year also.

Until I get my crystal ball adjusted to read the future, I can only say that the Senior Prom on May 12 promises to be a big success and a memorable one, and that we are determined to capture a prize in the street parade this year. The ball is hazy again, but we know and hope that fifty years from now we can look back without a crystal on our fine times at Jamaica Plain.

Class Will of 1950

We, the graduating class of Jamaica Plain High School, being weak in the knees and dizzy in the head, do hereby bestow all our unearthly belongings as follows:

To J. P. H. S. — A new assembly hall complete with red plush seats.

To Mr. Casey — More boys who don't believe in smoking.

To Miss Morrissey — An assistant to keep tabs on Mr. Casey.

To Miss Mullen — More students interested in becoming teachers.

To Mrs. Haley — A more comfortable couch for her AILING PATIENTS.

To the Agricultural Department — Private limousines to take the boys to their farms.

To the Art Department — A wall in the Art Museum reserved for our art students.

To the Commercial Department — Mistake-proof typewriters.

To the English Department — Modern novels to replace all those WELL LOVED authors.

To the History Department — Moving-pictures of United States History — instead of textbooks.

To the Math Department — A new set of Math books — with answers.

To Miss Barry — Bigger and better misconduct slips.

To Miss Blessington — One-a-day courage capsules.

To Coach Bond — ATHLETES!!

To Mr. Buck — A piano for his homeroom.

To Miss Campion — Students who appreciate "Lord Jim".

To Miss Chesley — Longer history periods.

To Miss Coghlan — Mr. Cunningham's thermos bottles.

To Mr. Crowley — Coffee Incorporated, Dennis Crowley, President.

To Mr. Donnellan — Pupils who can read and understand English.

To Miss Donlan — Students who take NO for an answer.

To Mr. Dooley — Boys! Boys! and more Boys!

To Miss Dowd — A new flower for her dress.

To Miss Driscoll — A string for her neck to attach scissors to.

To Miss Hennessey — Students who REMEMBER their right seats.

To Miss James — A yearbook staff that has everything in on time.

To Miss Johnson — A new gym uniform.

To Miss Kelley — The skeleton she's been longing for.

To Miss Maguire — A seat for Norman in her typing class.

To Mr. McCarthy — Pupils who will do at least thirty words a minute.

To Mr. McGuckian — A whip for his gentlemen farmers.

To Mr. Mealy — A stage on which to present the class comedies.

To Miss O'Connell — Longer recess periods.

To Mr. O'Leary — A 1950 team of six-footers.

To Miss O'Malley — A new necktie supply.

To Miss Ruggles — A round trip to Paris.

To Miss Mary Sullivan — A gavel to keep her classes in order.

To Mr. Sullivan — An adding machine for use in the lunch room.

To Miss Eleanor Sullivan — A class that will dictate.

To Miss Tombaugh — A display window for the use of her super salesgirls.

To Mr. Wendler — All-girl classes.

To Mr. Woodward — Two new words to replace PARTICULAR and SPECIFIC.

To the Undergraduates — A new ballroom for next year's Prom with music by Vaughn Monroe's Orchestra.

Class Prophecy . . . 102

On the spur of the moment a week ago, I informed my husband, who is the light house keeper of Portland Headlight on the wonderful rocky coast of Maine, that I had finally decided to spend my first vacation in ten years in Boston, with the main intent of seeing my old friends.

The following day I waved goodbye to my husband and two little boys and flagged the first scow going southward which, incidentally, is owned and operated by the BRADY and CULLEN Company, two former classmates of mine. They were doing very well in this line of business I thought; just last week they came near making headlines in the paper for aiding a distressed Nantasket boat that lost its course taking a slow trip to Chelsea.

When I arrived at T Wharf, I proceeded through the streets of Boston until I reached Faneuil Hall, where there was commotion going on outside. Determined to investigate, I entered the building and found to my surprise that a rally was being held. ED SCHEER was running for Mayor of Boston! When I talked to Ed after he made his speech, he told me that he thought the election was in the bag for he had spent the last few weeks handing out cigars and kissing babies.

PAUL ANDERSON was also at the rally and had an active part in the campaign; he thought he'd like to try his wit at city treasurer. He was always noted for having a good head for figures, numbers that is! More telephone numbers in his vocabulary than words.

When I came out of the building, I tripped and broke the heel off my left shoe and came very near breaking my neck. Well I hobbled the best I could down the street and found a shoe repair shop under ROBERT CANNATA'S management. He really did a marvelous job for me and my shoes were almost like new again except that they weren't high heels anymore but loafers.

I stayed at MARION CONNOR'S Guest Home while I was in Boston in response to an invitation she so kindly sent me a few months ago. Marion has her establishment directly located across from J. P. H. S. and many of the teachers conveniently board there now.

The next morning as I was waiting for a bus, a horse that was hitched to a milk wagon standing near the curb, chewed off the flowers on my hat when my back was turned. You can imagine my righteous indignation as I waited for the return of the milkman, but my anger turned to good humor as I recognized him to be ROBERT BARRY who was indeed sorry for his horse's bad manners and offered me a ride down to the next bus stop. I asked Robert why he was so behind times still using the horse and wagon. He said he didn't think he could invest in a truck while he was so busy buying toy ones for his three sets of twins.

As I was again standing waiting for the bus, I noticed that the woman beside me was none other than charming LORETTA MORLOCK. While we talked over old times I learned that she was employed as a governess by the former AGNES CALLAHAN, who is now an admiral's wife busily raising their own little navy.

When the bus finally arrived, I knew at once why it wasn't on schedule; DAVID CURTIS, that never rush man was at the wheel. After a few pleasant words of recognition I took my seat at the end of the bus. My eyes immediately fixed on one of the ads in which I recognized VIRGINIA CONLON to be the woman who was brushing her teeth with "Grin and Bear It" toothpaste. I wondered for the moment if they were the same set Ginny left school with.

I got off the bus and entered a store which I later found out was owned by RICHARD HARKINS who employs LILLIAN HALL as his efficient cashier. On wandering through the store, I saw GEORGE CLARK behind a vegetable counter singing at the top of his lungs "I've got a lovely bunch of cocoanuts." While I was looking over some of the books on one of the counters I was happy to recognize that nice Texon gal JOAN CLARK, to be the movie book's cover girl, and when flipping through the pages I was more amazed to find that MARION ANDERSON and MARGARET BERMINGHAM, the great novelists, had gone to Hollywood to direct the filming of a picture from their wonderful novel "Honeymoon in Slobovia, Siberia" starring BARBARA BYRD and THOMAS CONWAY as the leading characters.

When I came out of the store I saw a fairly new department store across the street and then I noticed the name of it to be BARAN-OF-SKY and Daughters. I then came to the conclusion that John surely had been a success. Curiosity more than anything prompted me to patronize the store. As I entered the main floor, I recognized the approaching floor walker as PAUL CANAVAN, with a home grown petunia in his lapel. After we exchanged a few words he directed me to the dress department where a fashion show was being held. The dresses shown were all made by the Three Little Tailoretts Company. ANNE BULMAN, ELIZABETH ANSOURIAN and CLAIRE BALABANIS were responsible for this title and their successful business was well known throughout the state. One of the models was GERALDINE BATES who was modeling a stylish stout number.

From that department I went to the bargain basement which made the day a sorry one. The store needed a policeman to direct traffic, women were swarming all over the place. I met ELIZABETH CHAPMAN who was holding on to her charming husband for dear life, and I didn't blame her—what a mob—he could have easily made an escape.

I found MARILYN BOSTON behind a hat counter which she was desperately trying to manage. She sold me a very nice hat, since during the almost futile attempt in trying to enter the bargain basement, I had lost the one which ROBERT BARRY'S horse had chewed.

I then went up to the hairdressing salon the third floor, because my hair was in such an uproar. There I found Madam VIRGINIA BLAIS and Madam AUDREY WHYTE to be in charge and I must say they did wonders with my upsweep that had become a down-sweep in that battle I had just come from.

I returned to the guest home in a most weary state that afternoon. A few hours later I received a telephone call from the former SHIRLEY ARCHIBALD who heard that I was in town and generously invited me over to her home the following evening.

Upon arrival I was ushered into a large spacious living room and was made to feel at home. Shirley and her husband are two lovely people; Mr. Weak owns a long string of Drive In Theaters I believe. Shirley showed me a book that she had recently read which she thought I'd find interesting reading, the title of it was "I Was Convicted" by BARBARA COULMAN, who is also the authoress of the books "I Was Caught", "I Was Framed", and "I Was Loused Up."

After a wonderful dinner we watched the LAURENCE COVENEY show on television. MARY COPPOLA and NATALIE CHAPPELL, two business executives were contestants on this quiz program. They won the jackpot on an easy question having to do with explaining Einstein's Theory of Relativity.

The piano player for the program was JUNE CONLEY who played The Flight of the Be Bop magnificently, and the two commercial singers were ELINOR BRILLANTE and JOAN BISSON who called themselves "The Discord" one sharp and the other flat.

I had an enjoyable evening and thanked Shirley and her husband for their wonderful hospitality. I was really glad to find that all my former classmates had been so successful with their J. P. education and so I returned happy and satisfied to my little family on the coast of the Pine Tree State.

News That Is News

Dit-dit-dot-dot-dot. Good evening, Mr. and Mrs. America; this is your zip reporter Walter Heatter, bringing you an on-the-spot description of the world premiere of the heartstirring and nationally loved "Diamond Bertha" in Jamaica Plain. The star of this masterpiece is none other than our own BARBARA FITZ-

GERALD.

From the extensive advertising, you all know that this play was produced by RAYMOND CAHILL, directed by HUGH GILMARTIN and HAROLD ECCLES. The classmates of the star of the class of 1950 at the Jamaica Plain High School have received special invitations to attend and are now beginning to arrive.

The first to enter are Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller X. Mrs. Rockefeller, the former MARGARET FINN, is resplendent in diamonds and mink. As she glitters through the lobby, the Misses MARY LOU DAWSON, MADELEINE FERRERA, and LORRAINE CURLEY, now matrons at their Alma Mater, dash madly in on her heels to set up booths, where they receive "Loyalty Fund" dues (in great demand these days.)

The loud, blaring noise you hear in the background, folks, is ARLENE (OLIVE) GIOVANELLO'S All-America Kindergarten Band marching into the lobby and playing so gayly "Our Jamaica".

Behind them enter the distinguished Miss HELEN GIDDINGS, author of that widely read satire, "How To Give Successful Parties", and DOROTHY DAILEY, who has recently completed a book for school students, "How To Do Latin Homelessons Thoroughly." Their literary works have been acclaimed so widely that they broke all best-seller records.

The crowd is now moving back to make way for the families of Mrs. SHIRLEY DEAN SMITH, Mrs. EVELYN CUMMINGS JONES, Mrs. FRANCIS DUFFIN O'TOOLE and Mrs. MARGARET DYER BROWN. Their forty-one children are being led in by their nursery teachers, COLLIN GILLIS and STANLEY FOWLER.

Incidentally, I have been asked to announce that MARY DELANO Dean of the Academy Moderne will arrive late for the performance, because ANGELINA FEMINO, world famous Milliner, had to rush to Arizona to purchase a rare piece of trimming for MARY'S Fedora.

Pardon me a minute please, a note has just been handed to me.

PAUSE . . .

I have been asked to announce the top United States contenders in the Olympic Games; JOAN DORIAN and MARY EVANS have arrived, fresh from their 300 mile horseback ride from New York City. It seems that while crossing the American Legion Highway, they lost their saddles; so they had to ride bare for some distance.

BEVERLY FLETCHER and JOAN EGAN are now rushing in; they write advice to the love-lorn, lovesick, lovehappy, and lonely hearts in the daily column which replaces Dorothy Dix.

It has just been passed to me that Professor ANNE McLAUGHLIN, ROSEANNE GREENE, and EDWARD FLANAGAN, currently explor-

"They are MISS MARY LOUISE MARCHANT, head librarian at the Central Branch at Copley Square; MISS KATHLEEN McDERMOTT, the Five and Ten Cent million dollar baby; and a MISS JANET REMLINGER, private secretary to AL SCULLY, the president of Scully's Advertising Company which is the biggest rival of Donnelly's."

"Now for the question. What great person do we celebrate on Columbus Day? . . . Sorry! Time's up! Since neither side has answered the question correctly, each person will be required to pay the consequences."

"Who are our next competitors, Gerry?"

"Well, Bill, we have MISS RUTH REID, an art teacher; MISS JOAN ROUMACHER, who was voted the most successful model of the year; and MISS LOLA SCANZILLO, chief executive of the Platform Shoe Company, which fits shoes according to height as well as size. They are a great help to little or short people." This next question will be to find the clue which led the detective to the answer to the mystery. MISS MARGARET VASSALLO, the nation's favorite Radio Star will dramatize it for you now. Ready! Go!"

Question after question, classmate after classmate seemed to appear on the stage by some coincidence.

CLAIRE RILEY, a telephone operator, connected the M. C. by phone to a house wife who happened to be RITA TARDANICO, a mother with six tiny, wee Stevies. DOUGIE CAMPBELL, is a professional singer with Rag Mop as his theme. ANN O'BRIEN, a lady sports writer, who had recently interviewed JOHN TRABUCCO, the nation's greatest football coach with a couple of little football coaches as runner ups. Then there is STEVIE GILMARTIN, who just recently came back from ten years with the Marines and who now has his own little, tiny farm with 200 head of cattle, 200 hens, 60 hogs, and about thirty horses. But so much for this handsome ex-marine with his mighty little farm.

During intermission, CHARLES CRAWFORD gave his commercial concerning Stoni Permanents and even demonstrated on his own hair. It came out beautiful.

After the interlude and the performance was continued, JOHN STAHL, the "get hep" tap dancer; CLAIRE SULLIVAN, the know it all girl, now the 'Answer Gal' on her own half hour program under the same name; and JAMES SULLIVAN, 'second Einstein,' a great mathematician and scientist who certainly knows his figures, numbers, that is, were the guest stars.

CLAIRE SHEPARD, the grand winner of the program, had after long years of waiting and hoping, finally obtained a flashy new car by answering the great question:

"Who is the laughing lady?"

Although the mockery was of a famous person, there could be no mistake that the imitator was DOLORES RIVARD.

While in the lobby of the building after the show, I met JOAN SHERIDAN, an elementary grade teacher who seemed to take a great interest in a certain pupil named ANDY WALSH, Junior; RICHARD SMITH, a chief warrant officer in the United States Navy; LOIS WEST, a nurse, who is head of her own rest home; KATHERINE TRAVERS, another Mr. Anthony only this time a Miss, whose slogan is: If you're not up to tricks, and you're in a fix, come to me I'll get you out of the fix. Then there was JOHN STEELE, a door to door salesman selling those handy, little flexible gadgets which no woman can be without, the new 'Hug-Me-Tight Bobby Pins'; NANCY SALISBURY, an energetic career girl with horn rimmed glasses whose profession is none other than a buyer for the household goods department; and last but not least is JEANETTE RICHARDS, a very efficient 'Yes Girl' who frequently is handing out her John Hancock on all important documents.

Having great joy at seeing and meeting some of my old classmates of Jamaica Plain High of the 1950's, I went home and continued my following days and nights wondering what my pupils would turn out to be. Perhaps I might even have Rita's and many of my fellow classmates' children when I am old and gray.

Class Prophecy . . . 207

The year — 1959. The place — Boston, one of the suburbs of Jamaica Plain.

Coming into the great city I drove across one of the gigantic arteries of the new super-highway system and headed for the Hotel International, formerly the Hotel Manger, but changed in the tide of progress for fear that it would be swept away by the undertow of antiquity as was the old dial-system telephone and the non-dimensional black-and-white television receivers.

Arriving at the west entrance to the hotel I met a familiar person. It was RONALD HILL. He told me that he and his wife Evelyn Hinkley have an attractive estate in the Blue Hills where he pursues some part-time farming at his leisure. He insisted that I go out to visit him soon. Promising him that I would do my best, I left him in charge of my car. You see, Ronnie is one of the chief operators of the subterranean parking systems in this city.

In the hotel lobby I met RICHARD SULLIVAN. He has gone in for writing in a big way. So I learned, he is the same Sullivan who monopolizes the Globe Sunday Magazine with his western thrillers. His wife, AUDREY MAILHOT, writes the traditional Dorothy Dix column he told me.

ing the planet Mars, will be unable to attend tonight's performance because of unforeseen stratospheric conditions which have slipped beyond their control.

That long swoosh you just heard was the landing of a helicopter piloted by JOSEPH DOHERTY and ROBERT DUNN.

Wait a minute, folks. From the commotion in the crowd, I think the climax of the evening has arrived. The President of the United States is now entering the theatre with some cabinet members. President CATHERINE GILLES is followed by Vice President PAUL CALLAHAN.

While the joyful crowd gives a rendition of "Our Jamaica", this is Walter Heatter signing off with a reminder to stay tuned to this station to hear those hilarious comedians, JAMES GALLIVAN and JOHN DUSTIN who follow immediately. Goodnight.

Helen P. Dwyer, 104

Class Prophecy . . . 106

I had no sooner left my plane, than I spotted KENNY GOSS or should I say Lieutenant Goss, U. S. Navy, waiting to show me the city of Houston, Texas. As he led me to his jeep we reviewed our school days in old Jamaica. I told him how DORIS ANDERSON had married a college grad. and is the mother of a beautiful girl. I also told him how BETTY MURRAY was a model in MARGIE MacDONALD'S Fur Salon, which was very prosperous.

After a tour of the city we decided to visit HARRY ALAJAJIAN, the designer of the famous C. N. Rocket, and its launching later on in the afternoon. As we neared the field we noticed a large billboard on which was a picture of PHYLLIS QUINLAN, now queen of the roller derby. At the launching field we were handed a program containing a list of the donors on the back. To our surprise three of our classmates headed the list. WALTER LYONS, the owner of an alligator farm, had presented the crew with fine alligator luggage. ROBERT EFRAIMSON, now general manager of the First National Stores, had donated the needed food supplies. JEAN STASHEWSKY was also a donor; she gave each member of the crew a gold watch. She had inherited a small fortune from a foreign uncle whom she never knew.

No sooner had we finished reading the list of donors than we met another one of our classmates, JOHN FOLEY, now owner and driver of the Trans-continental Taxi Service. He just drove down from Boston with MARTHA STEWART as a fare. He noticed that Martha had an engagement ring on her finger, but, he didn't know who the secret beau was. John left us then since he had a return fare waiting for him.

Just then we heard ART DAVIS and his band strike up the opening lines of "God Bless America" so we hurried to the stands. First on the program was a speech on the heroic deeds that these men in the rocket were doing. It was delivered by ALFRED RYAN, an oil tycoon. Then came JOSIE TABBI, a congresswoman, and her farewell speech. Next, the people in the stands arose and saluted the crew and passengers as they marched into the rocket. ARA ALBUZETIAN, famous army pilot, and HARRY ALAJAJIAN inventor, were co-heroes. Then in marched the crew of five. After the crew came ANN SHAW, world wide photographer and HELEN PITTS well known reporter. Last, but necessary, came JOHN KILDUFF, astronomer and navigator of this famous ship.

The door clanged shut; everything was ready; first came a whistle, then came a roar, and the rocket was off for Mars.

Nine days later I tuned into CHARLOTTE MacDONALD's news hour and learned that the C. N. Rocket had landed safely on Mars and climatic studies were underway. A new field was opened to all science by my classmates of 106. Am I proud of all of them.

Prophecy for 204

It is Saturday evening, June 22, 1960 and having all our papers corrected and our assignments put together for the following two weeks, I with two other high school teachers was entering the new 'Sharp O Boy' building where that ever growing popular, new television quiz show called "Think or Shrink" was stationed in Boston for one week. Being ushered to our seats, we sit down in our royal blue plush chairs, all ready for the show.

It is eight o'clock and the announcer, to my great surprise, is WALTER WERNIG.

"Presenting the new 'Think or Shrink' show with that ever funny, laugh-a-minute master of ceremonies, BILL STONE under the sponsorship of Stonie Premanents which gives your hair an exquisite permanent in one hour. And now on with the show."

"Thank-you, gentle people. Now with the help of my assistant, GERRY CALLAHAN, who will present the contestants to me, we shall proceed. Who are the first people tonight, Gerry?"

"There is a group of husbands and wives. They are from left to right, Mr. and Mrs. CHARLES DEWEY who have four boys; a young housewife, named FLORIDA, with her husband, JIMMY, who has just arrived from Japan; and a delightful tall, blonde, young lady, JUANITA and her husband under the name of MR. AND MRS. ROBERT KENT."

"And who are their opponents for the first round, Gerry?"

A little later I left the hotel to go out to dinner. Liking Italian food and seeing the Lucerne Restaurant still thriving, I went in there and ordered a large plate of spaghetti, chef's own style. It was the best I'd ever tasted! Mentally brushing up on my Italian, I insisted upon interviewing the cook. I met him all right; our little friend, JOHN McCARTHY! After I had complimented John on his superb cuisine, he started talking about his pizza and then about his little brood, all boys. In the evening there is dancing at the Lucerne and John takes his place then as drummer in the orchestra. He has made the orchestra famous with his skillful manipulation of the sticks.

A taxi picked me up outside the door. We sped toward Centre Street in the heart of the metropolis. The traffic was heavy, but with a chauffeur like HARRY HARTFORD I felt quite safe. "I have but two bosses to worry about in this world," Harry was telling me, "one, the fellow who gives me my check every week and the other, the little woman who spends it." MARY KILDUFF still loves dancing and the theatre, Harry told me, and she is still going out every Saturday night with him.

Pausing for a traffic light near a Huntington Boulevard beauty salon I chanced to notice this ad in the window, "Does your boyfriend run his fingers through your hair and later on comment on how messy it looks? Why then, what you need is a PHYLLIS HUBBARD close-fitting permanent wave. Miss Hubbard has perfected a new process which makes the hair spring quickly back into place." Harry informed me that Phyllis married ROBERT HATCH, the head of the research labs of the Sleep-in-the-Morning Spring and Mattress Corporation of Springfield.

Speaking of Springfield, that's where EARL LOVEJOY and his wife ROSALIE HAYHURST have their modern dairy farm. Earl has his cows trained to milk only once a day at eleven o'clock in the evening. This way he can do his work when he is most awake and still gets his necessary sleep in the morning.

I got out at the corner of Boylston and Centre Streets and proceeded walking down Centre Street. Walking in front of me, pushing a baby carriage, was MARY LADD. There seemed to be a little crowd of children around her all bearing the same family features. I guess her Richard finally popped the question. Mary and her little following disappeared in the flood of week-end shoppers.

Everywhere I saw posters reading: Vote for JOHN HEALD, Your Present and Next Mayor! Included was a family portrait of John, his wife, DOROTHY HARGRAVES and their numerous family. I saw a similar advertisement where PAUL ANDERSON was seeking reelection as U. S. Representative and a corresponding picture of Paul with PHYLLIS MALONE and a host of little angels.

Jamaica Plain has grown much in the past nine years. The RONALD PETERS' Construction Company is erecting a large theatre where the old Curley School used to be. The same company put up the Municipal Building at the Monument; that's where I went next.

The first floor is devoted to physician's offices; great doctors like JOAN MacMASTER, Master of Dentistry, WILLIAM C. JOHNSTON, famous throat and lung surgeon and his wife, LORRAINE LOZIER, well-known oculist.

On the second floor, ISABEL MacPHERSON runs her model school together with DOROTHY HUGHES; FLORENCE IRVINE sits behind the desk of a travel bureau; and ROBERT BLASER's Band has its main publicity office. Bob married GLORIA JOHNSTON, I heard, and he's sending all his kids to GEORGE LIDBACK's body building school on the next floor up. George has been touring the country with his wife BARBARA HANEY who is already the mother of five boys who intend to be as famous as their father.

On the fourth floor, DORIS MacGUIRE teaches her uniquely perfect ballet. Doris appeared herself that evening at the Opera House in the beautiful "Ballet d'Amour."

One cannot come so near and not pay a visit to his old Alma Mater, Jamaica Plain High School. I was cordially received by the Headmaster, ROBERT KENT. Bob had been professor of English, French, Spanish, Italian, and Mathematics before being appointed headmaster. He and Juanita live on a large farm in Milton. They have four girls and three boys, all of whom will go to Jamaica Plain High School, Bob told me.

Who was the head of the Agricultural department but ROBERT MURPHY! If the boys can't find agricultural work for the summer he sends them to his own farm in Vermont; he makes the freshmen toe the mark.

I found two familiar faces in the History department; MARGARET WERNIG and JOYCE MacNAUGHT. The new Biology teacher was ALICE MAHONEY. Alice has done away with the study of insects and teaches more about amoeba and his kinfolk. It produces pupils with stronger stomachs, Alice explained.

On the way out of the building I met the drum and bugle instructor RAYMOND LANE. I didn't want to keep him as he was going to meet his wife, LOIS HAYES, and take her to a party in Chicago this evening.

I sat around at the bachelor's club that evening watching a life-sized play broadcasted into a television area from Chicago. The play was, "My Darn English Teacher," starring BARBARA KNADLER.

If all this has happened in only nine years I wonder what another few years would do.

Our Alma Mater goes on harvesting a new crop of seniors every year, but none will ever be as dear as this old class of 1950.

What Next ?

Here it is 1960. It's my night off from the hospital and I'm on my way to the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. A farewell party is being held for a group of Jamaica Plain students who are planning a trip to Mars by rocket-ship for the purpose of teaching the Martians the American way of life.

It seems the idea began when FRED NIELSEN and LEONARD ROSBERG, two of our most famous scientists, purchased a rock-ship to make extensive trips to Mars. Finding the Martians congenial people, and the planet suitable for living conditions; they offered a free trip to all those who are interested in the project. Many students of Jamaica Plain High are planning to go.

The Ritz-Carlton Ballroom is filled to capacity with former students and interested spectators. I see RAYMOND SANTISI at the piano about to begin one of his famous compositions. He interrupted his busy schedule at Carnegie Hall to attend the party.

In the center of the room is a table reserved for all who are planning to make the trip. Seated at the head of the table is LEO DRISCOLL, now a famous surgeon, who plans to revolutionize medicine on Mars. Leo began his profession as a dentist, but he became so fascinated by operating technique he delved a little deeper into the field of medicine. JOAN MORGAN is accompanying him as his assistant. After training, Joan specialized in surgery. Sitting next to Leo is the celebrated professional basketball champion ARTHUR ISBERG. He is carefully considering the idea of starting a basketball league between the Martians and the United States.

THOMAS MANNING, a renown business tycoon, is financing the expedition and is going along to be sure his money is put to good use. He is being accompanied by two of his most efficient secretaries MARGARET McDERMOTT and NOREEN PRAY. IDA MATARRAZZO and PATRICIA MULLIGAN, the pride and joy of Pan-American Airlines, are offering their services as stewardesses. They tell me they are very thrilled about the trip.

JOHN O'SULLIVAN and SALVATORE RUSSO who won such fame navigating the Super Dynamic Jet are pilot and co-pilot respectively of the rocket-ship. With this able crew the trip is sure to be a success.

JOAN MORASH and FRIEDA SULLIVAN invited me to their table and we had an enjoyable chat. Joan is married and has two handsome boys whom she intends to send to Roxbury Latin. Frieda is also married and has five boys — all red heads. She tells me she has quite a time getting a baby-sitter for the children, as they are a trifle rambunctious.

Talking to HELEN MARA and JOSEPHINE MCGINNIS, I learned they are reporters from the Boston Globe covering this gala event. They tell me DORIS PALMER has established a Business School for girls and is still carrying a torch for Steve.

Noticing a crowd of people gathered around one of the tables, I hurried to the spot and discovered VIRGINIA MILLER passing out autographs to her fans. Her marriage to Donald in 1954 didn't stop her career as a novelist. She has just had her fifth book published, which is sure to be a successful best-seller.

Part of the entertainment was a short review of the latest musical "Call Me Mrs." BEVERLY O'BRIEN has the starring role. She is making a tour in Europe next Spring and thrills audiences with her voice.

A famous Paris designer was introduced who was none other than JULIET PETERS. Juliet just returned a few weeks ago from Europe, and brought back some unique creations. AUDREY RALSTON and SHIRLEY MILLS modelled the Paris fashions. They are both Conover models and are fascinated with their work.

A few tables to my right I saw PAUL McKENNA, Boston's foremost photographer, taking pictures of the entertainment. He is also taking the trip to Mars so that we might have some idea of how it looks. Paul's studio takes all the yearbook pictures of Jamaica Plain High, and there are never any complaints. ROBERT McADAMS was sitting with him. They tell me he has taken Bob Coyne's place as Sports' illustrator.

On my way out of the hotel I met JOAN MORITZ who tells me she signed a movie contract and plans to get an early train for California. Joan won national fame when she was chosen Miss America in 1955.

While waiting for a taxi, I met DOROTHY MUTLOW who is a nurse at one of our leading hospitals. She informed me that FLORENCE SALISBURY and CHARLOTTE McHOWELL are in the secretarial office of the hospital, and PHYLLIS MAGEE is chief switchboard operator. BARBARA MENZ has complete charge of the office at Jamaica Plain High.

When I arrived at my room in the nurse's home, I turned on the radio to listen to WILLIAM PURIN's disc-jockey program. He is the greatest sensation since the days of Bob Clayton who, incidentally, is featured in the new Broadway musical "Lily of Laguna."

I spent the remainder of the evening reminiscing about my former days at Jamaica Plain High, and contemplating what future years might bring.
